I disagree with the joining of South blyth with Plessey
I feel strongly that a merger with South blyth and Hartley would be more appropriate.
The area is similar in community values and spirit protecting the coastline and land between is of high importance to both locality's.
Many children from South blyth are now traveling to schools in Hartley svf schools and engage in community events and facilities within that area.
Linking the two would strength the relationships within these areas and could facilitate improved transport links for children reducing need for increasing numbers or car journeys causing upset to residents and improve air quality around schools and homes.
I find both South blyth and Hartley councillor's to be aligned in thinking and values and feel moving forward this would better represent the residents of South Blyth than joining with Plessey.
In the bigger picture I feel that South Blyth is more aligned to cramlington Kilingworth than Ashington for assistance from local MP.
