Related subject: Tatsfield

I am opposed to the proposed changes suggested by the Boundary Commission. Tatsfield is essentially a small rural village with its own character and interests which are represented by our own councillor on the Tandridge District Council. If we are merged with Limpsfield, which is both more urban and populated, our uniqueness and interests would be threatened in that any councillor elected might not be locally based or have our concerns at heart. In conclusion, we should retain single member status in my view. Many of the locals in the village appear to agree with this point of view.
