Boundary change - Ingleton village moving from Barnard Castle to Evenwood .

I totally disagree with this move of boundary .

Reasons

Ingleton village has always been in the Teesdale area, both geographically and economically.

Ingleton is served by bus routes that run up and down the dale and not to the Evenwood area.

Any funding that the village has applied for has been done by working with the Barnard Castle councillors who know our village and area very well.

The Gaunless valley area / Evenwood is different geographically and economically to the Barnard Castle area. There are very different challenges and needs and therefore would not be working towards the same targets.

Ingleton village has ALWAYS traditionally worked with Barnard Castle / Teesdale District Council - we have not connected in any way with Weardale / Evenwood .

Geographically Ingleton is in Teesdale and the natural boundary is the main road A688 ,would be a much easier, and logical boundary.
