I strongly disagree with the proposal to separate Greencroft Parish from Lanchester. Maiden Law is the main village with further housing surrounding it , all of which have strong links to the village of Lanchester. Many amenities and local services are provided there : schools, doctors, dentists, shops, library etc. We have many shared issues with Lanchester and benefit from sharing local councillors to support both parishes. Consett is a larger, more industrial area and has different issues to our rural parish. Although there may be a need to even out numbers, it would be a mistake to separate areas which historically and currently work well together.
