To whom it may concern:

I have recently learned that the Boundary Commission has proposed a new three councillor Consett South Ward.

As a resident of Moorside I cannot support this and I would urge the commission to consider dividing this area into two separate wards ie Healyfield + Moorside + The Grove and keep the rest of the area (Delves + Templetown) as a separate ward.

Whilst Healyfield, Moorside and The Grove are part of the Consett cluster they are distinct settlements with separate services, transport links and communities.

I feel smaller wards are better served by individual councillors as the councillor gets to know and understand the needs of their constituents.

The issues facing a more densely populated Delves/Templetown can be quite different to the issues faced by more rural areas eg Moorside and Castleside.

Thank you for your time,
