Related subject: Chalford

The community grouping is more relevant to Stroud area than getting elector numbers equally balanced. Chalford and Brimscombe/Thrupp make up a coherent current Minchinhampton ward, which is currently at risk of having Thrupp carved out, while some local politicians are suggesting Chalford should instead be shifted to sit with Painswick, a village and surrounding the other side of Stroud which we have no affiliation to or borders with. I sincerely hope that Chalford is retained with it's natural neighbour of Minchinhampton, with which we share sides of a valley and similar concerns.
